NOTES: Excellent point guard who can run the break or set up the offense in the half court. He is able to make some of the best passes in the nation. He understands angles and he has a grasp of the offense. He is extremely long so he plays bigger than his height. He is able to score going to the basket because of his length. He is a good shooter but his percentages don't reflect it because he takes some questionable shots. He plays better in crunch time and knocks down his free throws.

NOTES: Cooper is a good defensive player. He is solid on the ball but much better helping. He has quick hands and he anticipates the play well. At times he doesn't play as hard as he can defensively. He is a good rebounder for a guard.

NOTES: Cooper is a nice prospect that will be undrafted but should get a look from a lot of teams in need of a ball handling back up. Cooper reminds me of a smaller better shooting version of Rajon Rondo.
